Tech-Ed: Bringing Education and Business Together for the 21st Century Economy

Poverty in Southern California has risen significantly in the last two decades and is acutely concentrated in households of lower educated workers. In addition, 25 percent of the children in the SCAG region are living in poverty. With the world's economy becoming increasingly both interdependent and hi-tech, our panel of industry, workforce, economic development, and education leaders will discuss and identify the opportunities for collaboration to ensure Southern California's workforce has the education and technological know-how to meet the needs of the region's future economy.

3:30 PM – 4:45 PM BREAKOUT SESSION 2A Valencia Ballroom 1 & 2

30 Minutes or Less! How New Supply Chain Technologies May Change Everything You Think You Know

In 1949, Popular Mechanics declared, "Computers in the future may weigh no more than 1.5 tons." Today, almost everyone carries a smartphone containing an amount of technology that rivals that which first put men on the moon. Evolving technology now touches every facet of our daily life. How we move goods from the ports to the stores may be changing more than anyone could imagine. This panel will explore how emerging technologies may impact long-term freight infrastructure planning and investment as well as the region's future workforce needs.

Panelists

- George Minter, Director of Policy and Environment, Southern California Gas Company

3:30 PM – 4:45 PM BREAKOUT SESSION 2B Valencia Ballroom 5 & 6

Local Planning and Sustainability: Public Health, Active Transportation and Food Deserts

City and County leaders must address matters unique to the individual community they serve, but they also share commonalities with colleagues in jurisdictions throughout this vast and diverse region. Hear city and county representatives discuss their shared interests including projects and initiatives aimed at addressing public health and the built environment, active transportation and food justice. Learn how jurisdictions can identify emerging innovations that can be replicated by communities throughout the region.
